

Cell phone use on commercial airlines should continue to be banned.

Flying can be stressful for many fliers due to a combination of environmental factors. Adding a loud cell phone user to the mix will not be beneficial to the flying public. If airlines/companies want to enable cell phones on commercial flights, private phone booths would be an option.